Pressure-Treated Wood Gazebos are constructed with #1 southern yellow pine for maximum strength and durability. The wood is kiln dried twice, reducing the chance of shrinking and twisting. All lumber is milled on four sides creating a smooth subtle finish.

Cedar Gazebos are identical in construction and style to the pressure treated models, but are made with architectural grade western red cedar. Cedar is known for its natural beauty and resistance to decay.

Vinyl Gazebos offer the strength and beauty of a traditional wood gazebo, but they are virtually maintenance-free. No need to spend time sealing, painting or staining as the durable vinyl material will not fade, crack, rot or peel. Vinyl has become a popular choice for busy homeowners who want their gazebo to retain its fresh, crisp new look for years to come.
